Auction plans are under way; boat raffle tickets are available

Chesapeake Academy's annual silent and live auction with dinner will be held at 6 p.m. May 5 on the Rowe Campus in Irvington. A dedicated group of volunteers are busy planning this major fundraiser, known as one of the Northern Neck's most successful and entertaining social events, said development associate Catherine Emry. Chesapeake Academy's annual auction is packed with spectacular gifts, exclusive trips, services and products and is a vital fundraiser supplementing the school's programs while helping fund scholarships for eligible students.

The theme will be "Saturday Night Live!" celebrating the 35th annual auction benefiting Chesapeake Academy. The '70s-themed auction is predicted to surpass the level of excitement and creativity of previous events, said Emry.

Raffle tickets are being sold on a chance to win a 2012 Boston Whaler 130 Super Sport (13') powered by a 40hp Mercury 4-stroke outboard with galvanized trailer. The boat is provided by Chesapeake Boat Basin of Kilmarnock, she said.

Tickets are $20 each. Tickets are available locally at Chesapeake Boat Basin, Specials and Chesapeake Academy. Tickets also will be available at the Chesapeake Boat Basin booth at the Richmond Boat Show, February 17 through 19. For pictures and more details, visit winawhaler.com.

"The fun of procuring items has already begun," said Emry. "Every year we are indebted to innumerable individuals and businesses in the Northern Neck who loyally support this event. Original artwork, furniture, jewelry, resort vacations and other items only available at the Chesapeake Academy auction including original one-of-a-kind events or programs are just some of the items up for bid."

To become a sponsor, purchase an ad in the auction catalogue or donate a service or item, contact Emry at 438-5575, or cemry@chesapeakeacademy.org.

Viewpoints series to begin March 5

Rappahannock Westminster-Canterbury (RWC) near Irvington recently announced its 2012 Viewpoints series.

"We're delighted that, for the eleventh year in a row, we are able to bring engaging individuals to the Northern Neck to speak on a variety of interesting and timely topics," said RWC president Stuart Bunting.

On March 5, Tim Timberlake, a freelance Richmond-based broadcaster and radio personality, will speak. Many will remember him as the co-anchor of Richmond's Channel 12 News at Noon or as the co-host and eventual anchor of Richmond's WRVA Morning Show. For his work on air, Timberlake received numerous honors, including the Frank Soden Lifetime Achievement Award and election to the Richmond Broadcasters Hall of Fame in 2001.

On April 2, Josiah Bunting III, president of the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation in New York will speak. He wrote The Lionheads based on his experiences in Vietnam, as well as four novels and biographies of U.S. Grant and George C. Marshall. Bunting served as president of

Tim Timberlake

Briarcliff College and Hampden Sydney College, and as superintendent at Virginia Military Institute.

On May 7, Kirsten Talken-Spaulding, newly appointed superintendent at Fort Monroe National Monument, will speak. A veteran of the National Park Service, Talken-Spaulding has served as chief ranger at National Capital Parks-East and in management positions at other parks in Virginia, Hawaii and California. She will be joined by William Armbruster, who served from 2008 until 2011 as executive director of the Fort Monroe Authority.

On June 4, Duery Felton, curator of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Collection at the national Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., will speak. Felton served in Vietnam and was wounded in combat. He is responsible for collecting and cataloging artifacts left at the memorial or donated for inclusion in the collection.

Viewpoints presentations begin at 11 a.m. in the auditorium at RW-C at 132 Lancaster Drive. The presentations are free. A complimentary buffet luncheon follows each speech.

Reservations are required. To reserve a seat for the March presentation, call 438-4000 on or after February 20. RW-C maintains a waiting list and will honor reservations in the order received. Separate reservations must be made for each event.

Civil War expert to present lecture at St. Margaret's St. Margaret's School will host Civil War expert James I. "Bud" Robertson Jr. at 7 p.m. February 24 in the Ball Memorial Gymnasium at 612 Water Lane in Tappahannock. The public is urged to attend. There is no charge.

In 1961, Dr. Robertson was picked by President John F. Kennedy to serve as executive director of the national commission of the Civil War Centennial, said Joanna Schilling. He returned to the White House in November 1963, at the request of Kennedy's aides, to redecorate the East Room for the slain President Kennedy exactly as it had been decorated when Abraham Lincoln lay in state.

Dr. Robertson is the author of more than 20 books on the Civil War. His latest book, The Untold Civil War: Exploring the Human Side of War, was published by National Geographic. Copies will be available for purchase during a book-signing following the lecture, said Schilling.

Robertson taught for 43 years at Virginia Tech. By the time he retired in Spring 2011, he had founded the Virginia Center for Civil War Studies and the university had amassed more than 8,000 books, she said.

Robertson also gained recognition through his collection of radio commentaries on NPR and his Blue Ridge Public Television documentary "Virginia in the Civil War: A Sesquicentennial Remembrance," added Schilling.

Swan story to be shared

Gwen Keane will review her book, Swan Wait, for the Books Alive program at 7 p.m. February 28 at the Northumberland Public Library in Heatshville.

The book is a story that resulted from eight years of observing and relating to mute swans that came to the waterfront property of Keane and her husband, Bill Balderston. Both took many photos of the swans, some of which are included in the book.

“Our book is a story about the relationship between humans and creatures in the wild,” said Keane. “I respect the fact that they are wild-life – not pets. Yet the swans were receptive to my curiosity. My book is a nonfiction story about our journey with the ‘come-here’ swans.”

When she grew up in Ditchley, there were no swans, said Keane. That in itself was intriguing to her now. The couple began to talk to friends about the relationship they were developing with the birds and Keane’s writing group urged her to do the book, her first.

“Yes, our come-here swans are a very controversial subject, but not the point of my book,” she said.

Although she left the Northern Neck in 1967, she returned to visit over the years. In 2003, she retired from federal service and moved back to the Northern Neck to a home on Indian Creek.

Refreshments and book signing will follow the review and discussion.

Capt. David J. Raffetto

IRVINGTON—Retired U.S. Navy Capt. David James Raffetto, 70, of Irvington died at home Saturday, February 4, 2012, surrounded by his family.

Born on May 18, 1941, in Germantown, Pa., the oldest son of the late Dorothy James Raffetto and Augustus Louis Raffetto, he was raised in Doylestown, Pa. He attended Susquehanna University and graduated in 1965 with a bachelor’s. While there, he met Kathryn (Kate) Ramsey whom he married in 1966.

After joining the U.S. Navy in 1966, he became a Navy aviator. He trained in Pensacola, Fla., a base for which he later served as squadron executive officer and commanding officer. An expert in anti-submarine warfare, he flew H3-H Sea King helicopters. A born teacher, he was training officer of helicopter pilots.

From 1971 to 1974, he was posted as exchange officer with the Royal Navy, serving on the HMS Norfolk, flag ship for NATO forces. Capt. Raffetto served as commanding officer of Lakehurst (NJ) Naval Air Station from 1990 to ‘93. He also had various assignments in the Pentagon and Hampton Roads area bases, both as an aviator and as a naval personnel expert.

He retired at the rank of captain in 1995. For the next six years, he was a consultant to the U.S. Navy working with various Crystal City firms as well as directly with the U.S. Navy.

When early in his career he regularly flew personnel between the Washington D.C., area and Norfolk, he became intrigued with the Northern Neck as a possible retirement location. This thought became a reality in July 2001, when he and Kate moved to Irvington.

A lifelong sailor, he soon joined the Rappahannock River Yacht Club where he served as commodore in 2006 and 2007. He was an active “Beaver” working on a variety of development projects around the club. He and Kate regularly cruised in their 34-foot Saber Success.

He raced in PHRF races, as captain on Success and as crew on other boats. In addition, he regularly raced in the Cape Dory Typhoon Dea Latis. He also participated as crew in the “Caribbean 1500,” a race/cruise from Hampton to the island of Tortola, in the British Virgin Islands.

Capt. Raffetto became very active in Irvington activities. He served as president of the Village Improvement Association (VIA) for several years, on the Citizen’s Advisory Committee for the town’s master plan review and on the Irvington Planning Commission. In addition, he served on the Fourth of July Parade committee and on the Lights on the Creek committee.

He was diagnosed with thymic cancer in 2010. For the next 18 months he underwent a variety of treatments, including experimental programs at Duke University Hospital and the National Institutes of Health. He stoically endured all the treatments and throughout it all maintained a positive attitude, a sense of humor, and continued to be more concerned about others than with himself.

Surviving are his wife of 45 years, Kate; his son, Brian Raffetto and wife Sherrie; his daughter, Sarah Raffetto Jameson and husband Phil; four grandchildren, Alex and Kelsey Raffetto and Corey and Kayle Jameson; a brother, John Raffetto and wife Jennifer and their children, Peter and Jay; a sister, Janet Raffetto and her partner, Peggy Hardin; as well as many dear friends who will greatly miss him.

Memorial services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, February 18, at St. Andrews Presbyterian Church in Kilmarnock with Military Honors. A reception will follow at the Rappahannock River Yacht Club in Irvington.

Memorials may be made to the David Raffetto Development Fund, c/o Rappahannock River Yacht Club, P. O. Box 55, Irvington, VA 22480.

Currie Funeral Home of Kilmarnock handled the arrangements.

Thank You Note

I want to say thank you to everyone that showed love and support during the passing of my beloved husband, Sylvester James White. All of the thoughts, prayers, phone calls, cards and visits were greatly appreciated. I was comforted in seeing just how many lives Jimmy touched during his earthly walk. He will be greatly missed. To God be the glory, great things He has done!

Reflections

by Rev. John Farmer

Church Folk

Decades and decades ago, while on a preaching tour of the Midwest, I met Pastor H. Craig Smith's mom, Charlotte. She and hubby Buck had invited me, accompanied by Craig, to stay with them as we passed through Michigan. They proudly introduced me to their family. They also took us to see their spiritual home, the Tecumseh Missionary Baptist Church, which, by the way, Charlotte mentioned "was looking for a pastor." I had already fallen so in love with them that I thought as how it would be so special to be their pastor. Oh well...

One night after the younger kids were bedded down, Charlotte, her preacher son, and I sat in the kitchen chatting about all things Old Testament. With little formal education, she was far more versed in the Old Testament than were the professors with whom I had studied. She was a Church Lady.

Clearly, the Smiths loved their Lord, their children and their church.

Buck Smith sang hymns like most people breathe. No hymn book nor instrument required; he'd simply announce a hymn, throw his head back and sing to the God of his salvation. Of course we were all invited to join in... however, Buck didn't wait for us to decide key, or dedication—he soared with the angels.

One of those Tecumseh, Michigan, kitchen chats was about an Old Testament lady named Huldah. I didn't know Charlotte or Huldah very well at that point.

King David drew the first Jerusalem temple plans. The temple was to be dedicated to God, though it was his son Solomon (King of the Israelites) who actually built the structure to be the original host to The Ark of the Covenant. That temple was destroyed almost 600 years before Christ by Babylonian King Nebuchadnezzar during the Siege of Jerusalem. The Ark of the Covenant has never been found.

Later, as the temple was being rebuilt, they discovered a dusty old scroll suspected to be the Book of the Law. Such a discovery was a quandary for the men folk. After exhausting their ilk for information, they turned to the Prophetess Huldah, whose husband was the keeper of the Jerusalem temple robes.

"And she said unto them: Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel: 'Tell ye the man that sent you unto me:'

Thus saith the Lord: 'Behold, I will bring evil upon this place and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read.'"

"Huldah, after authenticating the book and prophesying a future of destruction for failure to follow it, ends by reassuring the King that because of his piety, God has heard his prayer and 'thou shalt be gathered unto thy grave in peace, neither shall thy eyes see all the evil which I shall bring upon this place'" (2nd Kings 22:13-18).

Huldah occupies nine Biblical verses as a prophetess accustomed to speaking the word of God directly to high priests and royal officials. Those officials were in charge of "what was and was not the genuine Law, and also who spoke in a manner of stern command when acting as a prophetess."

Huldah was a relative of Jeremiah, both being descendants of Rahab and Joshua. While Jeremiah admonished and preached repentance to the men, Huldah preached likewise to the women. Huldah said to the messengers of King Josiah, "Tell the man that sent you to me," etc., indicating by her unceremonious language that for her Josiah was like any other man. Josiah spoke to her, not to Jeremiah. He thought that women were more passionate than men, and she would be more likely than Jeremiah to intercede with God on his behalf.

Huldah spoke the truth to them about the scroll. Little more is known of her.

Scholars believe that the book Huldah authenticated was most likely the Old Testament Book of Deuteronomy.

Huldah's burial site is thought to be between the walls in the present temple in Jerusalem. Some hold for her burial site as being within a cave carved out of the rock beneath a mosque on Mount of Olives. The gates in the southern wall of the temple are named for her. Whichever is in actual fact correct, such is considered holy to Jews, Muslims and Christians.

Last night Tommy Thompson gave a Gospel concert at our church in Irvington. He so reminded me of Buck Smith when he announced to us that he was singing to God for us, not to us for God.

There sat Morattico Baptist Church Pastor Craig Smith and his wife, Janet, on the 12th anniversary of his proposal to her in that same sanctuary, for the same occurrence: our Sweetheart Banquet and Concert.

My bride Hazel asked me to sit up front with her. I couldn't: I was already beginning to slobber tears of joy. I had asked Craig to begin our celebration of music with prayer. I was overwhelmed as I looked at his two precious children. They were Charlotte and Buck's grandchildren, born to the hearts of Craig and Janet, after the passing of Charlotte.

I retreated to a back pew where no one could see the cracks in my armor.

I love church and I love God's church folk.

Thank you, God, for loving me.

Rev. John Farmer has been the pastor at Irvington Baptist Church since 1986.

Buck Smith sang hymns like most people breathe. No hymn book nor instrument required; he'd simply announce a hymn, throw his head back and sing to the God of his salvation.

Pancakes and ashes to mark beginning of Lent

Several area churches have announced Shrove Tuesday and Ash Wednesday celebrations.

Shrove Tuesday is observed by Christians the day before Ash Wednesday. This year the dates are February 21 and 22.

Shrove Tuesday also is known as Pancake Tuesday, Fat Tuesday, or Mardi Gras. Pancakes are traditionally served on Shrove Tuesday, preceding the 40 days of fasting associated with Lent. Pancakes use up rich ingredients, avoided during Lent, such as eggs, milk and sugar.

Ash Wednesday marks the first day of Lent, which extends to Easter Sunday. Lent is traditionally a period of preparation among believers for the celebration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Ash Wednesday gets its name from the practice of placing ashes on foreheads as a sign of mourning or repentance to God.

Among local churches:

- White Stone United Methodist will hold a pancake supper from 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday. Tickets are $6 for adults and $3 for children. Tickets are available from church members, or call 435-3555. A service of ashes will follow the supper at 7:30 p.m.
